After I performed the AND, XOR, and OR bitwise functions on the origianl t-rex.png image, it was interesting to see the outputs. The AND image seemed to always retain some kind of color. The OR image almost never retained any color but the outline of the image was usually always there. The XOR method completely left the image in a pixel mess and there was no way you would be able to decipher what the image was.

AND

OR

XOR